

Communication

as a form of humans dynamically exchanging information through various channels.

Information

as a manifestation and persistence of communication giving a static picture

Trade-offs

a dynamic model of forces whose balances yield various hindrances in productivity

